Faculty Job Satisfaction Survey

Report Preview

Introduction

You are holding in your hands a preview of the COACHE Chitti. Mbadennica Officipal Report. NIM IN AO Report data and design are the culmination of our work since 2003 with faculty focus groups, two pilot studies (for pre-tenure and tenured faculty), and ongoing dialog with academic leaders at our partner institutions.

While there are many approaches to report design, our choices at COACHE leverage our comparative data to help you, your leadership team, and your faculty move more swiftly from survey results into dissemination, engagement and action.

To the uninitiated, the CAO Report can be daunting. However, just a few minutes spent with the Results at a Glance and Benchmark Dashboard will unlock the broad themes of your survey results and the areas deserving of immediate scrutiny.

Your faculty's strengths and concerns will be revealed, layer by layer, as you follow the green, grey, and red colors of your CAO Report. These colors illustrate your faculty's attitudes relative to peers of your own choosing and to a larger, labor-market cohort (e.g., women to women, associate professor to associate professor). The yellow and orange colors will identify gaps between groups within your own institution (e.g., women and men, associate and full professors).

| Near the conclusion of the survey, we ask faculty to think |
| about the institution as a whole and identify those issues |
| (both good and bad) that are most on their minds. Here,    |
| faculty are given the opportunity to select the two best   |
| aspects of working at your institution. Your CAO Report    | includes these results compared to peers and the COACHE cohort and, therefore, your competitive advantages in faculty recruitment and retention. The most frequently cited responses at your institution are highlighted in red.

Faculty are also asked to identify the two worst aspects of working at your institution. The worst aspects can be particularly helpful in narrowing down your priorities, especially when a review of your Benchmarks suggests many concerns to address: when everything needs fixing, we tend to fix nothing. In the CAO Report, these worst aspects are a heat map of your institution's competitive threats. The most frequently cited responses at your institution are highlighted in red.

Global Considerations: In Your Faculty's Own Words

The final item in our survey is an open-text response to the prompt, "What is the one thing your institution could do to improve the workplace for faculty?" The comments from your faculty were reviewed by our team, redacted of identifying information, and coded according to the survey themes. The five most common themes in your faculty's responses were:

The complete and coded open-text responses in your CAO Report are a tool for prioritizing your results. By adding a dose of humanity to the quantitative results, these comments direct you and your team to be more sensitive to what is in the minds of your faculty. The mean and standard deviation for Tenure Clarity tell you which faculty are unclear about expectations for tenure. An open-text comment describes the impact on faculty's lives-their careers, their health, their families—and may even include helpful ideas on how to fix the problem.

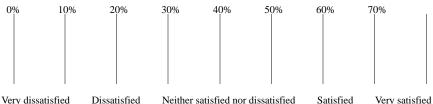

In the complete digital report, you may access these redacted comments all at once, coded thematically, and accompanied by a chart of theme frequencies. In addition, when a comment mentions a topic that is related to a Benchmark, your CAO Report attaches that comment to the appropriate section. With salient, open-text prompts associated with each theme, you will find it easy to incorporate them into your presentations and discussions with faculty. Doing so reinforces that you are listening and trying to understand—the first step toward improving the faculty workplace.

Global Considerations: The Department and Institution as a Place to Work

There are other "big picture" results in your report concerning overall satisfaction, intent to leave, and the likelihood that a faculty member would recommend her/his department as a place to work. For the purposes of this preview, we are sharing respondents' overall satisfaction with their departments and with their institution as a place to work.

Department as a place to work

Next Steps: Distributed Leadership

While some are tempted to see these results and jump immediately to strategies for fixing problems, others know that institutional change is more effective and sustainable under models of distributed leadership. At COACHE, we have learned from our partners that analysis and sensemaking are a community process. Treat this document and the full report as a discussion guide, not a report card. Engage your faculty as partners in improving the workplace. Leverage their skills, expertise, and their personal experiences. Thoughtful, transparent engagement establishes trust among faculty. How you engage your faculty throughout this process is just as important as any policies or programs that result. Very few things can be accomplished in the academy without trust.

The remaining pages of this preview pose questions for you to consider, alone or with your team, as you begin this endeavor. In the next few weeks, COACHE will host several online open houses where you and your team can ask questions and engage with other teams. Also, COACHE will be hosting a Strategy Workshop on August 8 and 9, 2019. The event is free of charge to our partners (except for travel and lodging) and is designed to give every institution the opportunity to plan for a successful dissemination strategy. We will also share some additional materials, including:

- A series of video tutorials for navigating and interpreting your full report
- · Sample meeting agendas
- · Discussion guides for your team
- Promising practices from other partner institutions

Your CAO Report contains additional materials that describe how to dig deeper, build communication plans, disseminate broadly, take ownership, and engage with peer institutionsthaktiom

| Write the names of at least five administrators, staff, or faculty—beyond your immediate COACHE team—whose work might be informed by these results. For example, if your results indicate dissatisfaction among faculty of color, you might consider including the Chief Diversity Officer. If faculty provide lower ratings on the Benchmarks relating to shared governance, the Faculty Senate (or equivalent) might be constructively engaged in the next steps. |
